

EXPERIENCED TEAM CREATES UPLIFTING EXPERIENCES AND CHANGES LIVES

At the Quatela Center, plastic surgery isn't a commodity.

"We don't use number of surgeries, recovery time, or cost as benchmarks of our success. For us, patient satisfaction is our goal," says Dr. Vito Quatela, renowned board-certified facial plastic surgeon, founder, and co-owner of the Quatela Center for Plastic Surgery. "We work in collaboration with our patients to design each procedure around their wants and needs, and we deliver an uplifting experience and outcomes that are second to none."

Procedures offered at the Quatela Center for Plastic Surgery—everything from facelifts and breast augmentation to tummy tucks and hair restoration—are performed by experienced, board-certified plastic surgeons in a state-of-the-art, fully accredited surgery center within the Lindsay House, a restored 1870s mansion designed with both functionality and comfort in mind.

THE PATIENT EXPERIENCE

According to Quatela, a superior patient experience is the top differentiator between his practice and others. "From the beginning of our relationship with a patient, we stand out. Our staff demonstrates commitment and dedication through the excellent care they provide, and our coordinators remain with their patients from consultation through post-recovery," he explains. "My colleagues and I are thorough in presenting options and ensuring every patient knows what to expect. We don't do cookie-cutter plastic surgery, because we know that individualized approaches lead to the best outcomes."

Another way the center differentiates itself is by making the process as streamlined as possible by providing comprehensive services—including lab work, EKGs, imaging, procedures, and recovery—all in one location.

"Anything and everything related to aging and cosmetic enhancement, both surgical and noninvasive, can be found at the Quatela Center for Plastic Surgery," adds Dr. Heather Lee, a fellowship-trained facial plastic and reconstructive surgeon. "Furthermore, while most of our procedures are performed on an outpatient basis, should a patient require overnight recovery care, they can stay in the center's Carriage House. It's private, convenient, and well appointed," she says.

MEDICAL AND COSMETIC CARE

As the business of plastic and cosmetic surgery evolves at breakneck speed, the center remains a regional leader in large part because of Quatela's openness in adopting new procedures, techniques, and philosophies. The practice continues to provide both medical and cosmetic care. Mohs reconstruction, scar revisions, and surgeries to improve the quality of life of children born with congenital abnormalities are all in a day's work, as are such elective procedures as chin, cheek, and lip augmentations, Kybella® and Botox® injections, and both surgical and noninvasive fat removal.

Lee, meanwhile, is bringing an emphasis on holistic wellness to the Quatela Center, exploring the impact of nutrition, mindfulness, and stress management on outcomes and recovery.

"Whether someone is considering a medical or aesthetic procedure, the research can be overwhelming," Lee concludes. "We work to get to the heart of the matter and help find the right solution for each patient."

Q the Medical Spa at Lindsay House

The Lindsay House is also home to Q the Medical Spa, offering a host of cutting-edge treatments for the face and body, including minimally invasive cosmetic services such as facial resurfacing, microneedling, facial fillers, photorejuvenation, laser hair removal, and a full menu of pampering body treatments.
